Sermon in a Sentence
A Treasury of Quotations on the Spiritual Life

The union of Christ with human beings is power and the source of power, as St. John says so penetratingly in the prologue of his Gospel: Any who receive Him He (the Word) empowered to become children of God. This is a power that inwardly transforms the human person.

MEDITATION OF THE DAY

One with Jesus in Baptism

The mystery of the baptism of Jesus, which marks the beginning of his public life, contains, as it were, the summary of his whole mission here below. By the humiliation which he willed to undergo in receiving this rite of penance “for the remission of sins”- presage of his baptism of blood upon the Cross- “Christ fulfills all justice.”...

In return, the heavens are opened; the Eternal Father authentically introduces his Son to the world; the glorious splendor that this divine testimony reveals announces the mission of the enlightening of souls which the Word-made-Flesh is about to inaugurate; the Holy Spirit rests upon him to show the plenitude of gifts that adorn his blessed soul and, at the same time, to symbolize the unction of grace that Christ is to communicate to the world...

Baptism, with faith in Jesus Christ, has become for us the sacrament of divine adoption and Christian initiation. It is the Name of the Holy Trinity that is conferred upon us, the Trinity that was revealed to us upon the banks of the Jordan...

In the same way as baptism constituted for Christ the summary of all his missions, at once redeeming and sanctifying- so baptism contains for us in germ the whole development of the Christian life with its twofold aspect of “death to sin” and of “life unto God.” So true is it, according to the Apostle’s words, that as many... as have been baptized in Christ, have put on Christ (Gal 3:27); so true is it that we make only one with Jesus in all his mysteries.
