“Becoming Worthy of God”

We may, at times, derive immense satisfaction from our spiritual duties, at other times not. Or there may be some spiritual activities which give us satisfaction and others that don't. For instance, we may get much more satisfaction attending a shared prayer session than we do from Mass. What matters is that we never allow such satisfaction to become a motive force. It can do so without our realizing it. We are not asked to reject the delight we might feel in our devotional activities, of course not, but we must not give this delight a significance it has not got. Because we get a greater sense of God's presence at a prayer meeting than at Mass or in silent prayer, it does not mean that God is in fact more for us in the prayer meeting and that we are justified in opting for that form of spiritual activity rather than for those which give no satisfaction. Perseverance in spiritual duties whether pleasurable or not is of supreme importance. To take up this or that because it pleases, because it is interesting, and to drop it when the interest goes; to pray when we feel like it and not when we don't, is to make a farce of prayer and to use God for our self-indulgence.

The most valuable form of asceticism, because it is the actual exercise of love, is the patient acceptance of the hardships and sufferings of life. For every good, responsible person there is a large measure of suffering which he takes in his stride, hardly advertent to it- it is part of life. Nevertheless it is just this hidden cross, patiently shouldered day after day, that gradually wears down our selfishness. It is the more precious in that it is hidden even from ourselves and does not flatter our pride. Monotony is one such cross.

Everyone from childhood upwards has to learn to take monotony if they would get anywhere. It seems an inescapable part of human existence, inescapable that is if we are true to our human condition. There must come a time for each responsible person when options are closed, a way of life is chosen and perseverance in that way of life will be the actual expression of our dedication to God.

The Wisdom of Fulton Sheen

No man can be happy on the outside who is already unhappy on the inside. If a sense of guilt weighs down the soul, no amount of pleasure on the outside can compensate for the loss of joy on the inside.

Consecration to the Sacred Heart of Jesus

O Most Sacred Heart of Jesus: You know the longings of our hearts, and you desire that we enjoy friendship with you. From your pierced side, you have poured out the wellspring of life, for which we thirst. Your heart burns with a love for all people to return to a right relationship with you. We celebrate the abundant gifts you have given this nation, founded on the self-evident truths that our Creator has endowed all people with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. We make reparation for the offenses against you and against human dignity that have taken place in this nation. May our hearts be united to yours, so that our families and communities enjoy peace and happiness; may broken relationships be reconciled, injustices repaired, and the wounds of our land be healed. May your holy Catholic Church serve as a sign, pointing all people to your infinite love. O Desire of Nations and Center of History, we ask you to bless these United States of America. Who live and reign with God the Father in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God, for ever and ever. Amen. Most Sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on us! Immaculate Heart of Mary, pray for us!
